JOE WALCOTT A QUITTER.

COLORED PUGILIST REPUSES TO CON-TINUE HIS FIGHT WITH WEST. Walcott Has the Best of the Eleven Rounds of Hard Fighting—Then Said His Arm Was Hort—Club Doctor Contradicts Him—West Gets the Decision and All Bets Stand. loe Walcott, the "Glant Killer," seriously infured his reputation as a pugilist and also gave the sport of pugilism a black eye at the dison Square Garden last night. He tackled Tommy West, the well-known middle weight. the presence of nearly 6,000 spectaors, and had a big advantage from the start. When the eleventh round ended Walcott said that his left arm was injured and that he could continue. Referee Charley White was amazed and argued the matter for some moments with the colored pugilist. But Walcott was obdurate, so there was nothing left for the referee to do but declare West the winner. Then White called James C. Kennedy into the ring and said: "In my estimation Walcott has delib erately quit. I am compelled to give the fight to West, but it is an outrage on the public Walcott was winning easily when he stopped." White then left the ring, and it was an-nounced to the crowd that Walcott for some reason had quit, but that the management of the Twentieth Century A. C. had de-eided to give his share of the purse to some charitable institution. There was a howl of "Fake," "Robbery" and "Skin" from the cread, and many yelled "Bets off." The man-

ing promoters held a confab in the ring in regard to the bets.

It was pointed out to them that there is n rule permitting a referee or a club manager to declare bets off, and that according to the Queensberry code under which the men battled all bets must go with the decision of the referee. As White had officially declared West the winner, it was decided to nothing about bets in any way. Then, too, it was recalled that when "Honest John" Kelly had declared bets off when Corbett's second, McVey, jumped into the ring to save Jim from a whipping at the hands of Sharkey, he was adversely criticised on similar agement, referee and several well-known box-

After Walcott had gone to his dressing room the club's physician, Dr. T. F. DeNaouley of 102 East Thirty-first street, wassent to examine the pugilist's arm. Tom O'Rourke, Walcott's manager, was present and immediately consented to an examination. The doctor, after feeling the joints in the elbow and jumping the arm up and down, said: Walcott, there is absolutely nothing the matter with your arm." Well, it's hurted, I guess," said Walcott, "It don't feel good." 'Nothing the matter with it," said the doctor to THE SUN reporter. "He's faking." Walcott, on form, should have been a warm favorite in the betting. But West entered the

he could not account for it.

There were about 4,000 persons in the arena when Master of Cerémonies Joe Humphries introduced the participants in the preliminary foot. The men were kid McFadden of Brook in and Jumy Rose of New York, who were the following the present the participants in the preliminary bout. The men were kid McFadden of Brook of Charley White was the referee and Teddy Foley handled the watch and goog. McFadden had a head of faring red hair and wore green trunks. Rose, who is a veteran in his class, forced the fight the first round, behavior of the second. McFadden staggered him who with heavy right-hand counters on the second. McFadden staggered him who with heavy right-hand counters on the second. McFadden staggered him who with heavy right-hand counters on the heavy with several clean punches. Then Rose rushed, his jaw with several clean punches. Then Rose rushed, only to reseive a couple of stiff wallops on the goes that spattered the claret all over his face. The pace has both weary at the gon.

The pace has been been the pace has been done had been had been with a light rush, his left being blocked. West then steepped away from another rush and came back with a hot jab in the mouth. Walcott and na again and got the left heavily into the stomach. West broke ground and as Walcott rushed once more Tom side stepped and shot a right dangerously close to the jaw. They got into a clinch and getting free Walcott rushed again, West blocking two fearful swings with his elbows. They exchanged head swings and in a haif clinch both pounded the kidneys. They were located at the bell. Honors even.

Second round—They got into a haif clinch at once and tried short body smashes. West them met a rush with a left in the body, but Walcott bored in with hard swings which made the white man back away. West was driven to the ropes, where he clinched. Then, in an exchange of smashes at long range, West reached the stomach with a left. Walcott then hustled and roughed, West standing up and putting in some hot face blows with the left. Walcott then hustled and roughed, West standing up and putting in some hot face blows with the left. Walcott stepped in, however, with a powerful left in the ribs and also nalled the kidneys with the right when West was holding. Third Round—West opened with a left in the stomach, which brought a clinch. Walcott then rushed wildly, swinging both hands, but West danced away nicely. Walcott jumped forward again and planted four quick lefts in Tommy's face. Walcott also rushed him to the ropes twice in succession, but his blows were wild and West's defence was clever. Again Walcott rushed and put in a tremendous left to the stomach. It was Joe's best blow so far and made West get away in a hurry. Still Walcott kept coming and when the bell rang West was at long range.

Fourth Round—Walcott put in a smash on the left eye that made it swell. Joe forced it without delay and got to the body with a powerful left. Then he rushed and swung some fearful blows but West stepped out of the way. Valicott went in again the rush was at long range as much as possible and did li Walcott, on form, should have been a warm favorite in the betting. But West entered the ring a 100 to 60 favorite. It was a false, price as the fight itself showed. Walcott did all of the fighting in every round. He was strong, more aggressive and had terrific punching power with him. West was weakened early in the game by stomach punches and was practically whipped when the end came. Indeed it seemed to be only a question of a few more rounds when West would have been effectually stopped. West's cleverness in avoiding blows was the only thing that saved him from a quick downfall. He didn't have any steam at all in his own blows and was an easy mark.

In the tenth round Walcott hit West well below the belt, but Referee White was not in the right place to see it, so he could not have disqualified him for the offence. Again in the eleventh Walcott hit low, but the referee paid no attention to West's protest. So when Walcott stopped as the twelfth was called for by the gong ft was the opinion of many that Walcott was driven to the worn-out trick of "injured arm." There was not a blow received by Walcott in any round that had force enough to injure him enough to make him fearful of the result, so that his actions were open to severe censure. His manager, Tom O'Rourke, who did not acta as assoond, but sat in a box at the ringside, expressed surprise at Walcott's behavior and said he covild not account for it.

There were about 4,000 persons in the area when Master of Ceremonies Joe Humphries howled in protest, but the referee told him to go on. West then met his man with half a dozen solid lefts in the face, Walcott keeping up his assault in spite of them. West also tried a right to the law, but it flew around the neck. Walcott cut loose after that and drove West to a corner with swing after swing. The blows were for the most part wild, though, and West was not seriously hurt. Both landed jarring belts as the bell sounded.

While Walcott was in his corner he leaned over the ropes and told O'Rourke that his left arm was injured. O'Rourke told Walcott to continue. When the bell rang for the twelfth round Walcott did not get out of his chair until the referee went over and asked him what was the matter. Then Walcott refused to fight and West was declared the winner.

M'COY AND CORBETT IN TRIM. Both Pugilists Will Soon Let Up Work-Bet

ting at Even Money. Jim Corbett has decided to quit training for his fight with Kid McCoy at noon to-morrow. He is in splendid condition already and says that another day's work will put him on edge. Corbett has been at Bath Beach for nearly a month. The outdoor work and his daily exercise in the gymnasium have apparently done him a world of good, for he looks as well and in fact better than when he met Jim Jeffries at Coney Island last May. Corbett's condition at that time was almost perfect, as evidenced by the great showing he made against the champion. Corbett started his labors yesterday morning by running from Rath Reach to Coney Island and return. He did not show any signs of distress. A dip in the surf followed and then Corbett took a rest until after dinner. The ex-champion does the bulk of his hard work in the afternoon. He likes boxing and indulges in this in preference to other exercise. Corbett spars daily with four men ranging from featherweight to middleweight. Some of Corbett's opponents do not know very much about the game but they give Jim plenty to do, and this is what he wa.its. "Spider" Kelly of San Francisco is Corbett's chief sparring partner. Leo Pardello also boxes with the Californian, but the efforts of the pair are more on the "rough house order than scientific. Kelly and Corbett had a lively tilt yesterday. Kelly is extremely clever and escaped Corbett's leads nicely. The two kept up a slashing pace for nearly a half hour. Pardello and Corbett also worked hard. Then Jim pounded the bag, skipped the rope, used the medicine ball and had a trial at the weights. At 4 o'clock Pardello and Corbett wrestled. The exhibition was full of ginger. Corbett showed great strength and wriggled out of some very difficult holds. Pardello says that "Pompadour Jim" is in fine fettle and in their tilts on the mat the heavyweight puglist shows wonderful skill. "Those who think I cannot hit." said Corbett ence to other exercise. Corbett spars daily tilts on the mat the heavy weight pugilist shows wonderful skill.

"Those who think I cannot hit," said Corbett yesterday, "will be very much surprised. McCoy will not have such a cinch as he thinks. If I get to him there will be something doing. I intend to fight him cleveriy for a while. If he shows any tendency to mix it up he will find me there all the time. I weigh more than I did when I fought Jeffries. That shows that I am getting bigger and stronger every day. I expect to tip the beam in the neighborhood of 102 pounds."

getting bigger and stronger every day. I expect to tip the beam in the neighborhood of 192 pounds.

The reports from McCoy's camp are also very flattering. The Kid is training as he never did before, as he realizes that in Corbett he will tackle one of the shiftiest boxers in the business. McCoy has depanded upon outdoor work to get in condition. Of course, he does a lot of exercise in the gymnasium, but he has been in the open air most of the time. That it has done him a lot of good is palpable, for he has taken on considerable weight and is more muscular than ever. McCoy says he weighs now close to 179 pounds and expects to scale inthe neighborhood of 182 pounds before the mill starts. If this is so it is about 12 pounds more than he has ever weighed before.

McCoy's principal opponent while in training is Jack O'Brien, the Philadelphia middleweight. McCoy has planned to leave Saratoga to-morrow night. He will be in town by Thursday morning. He will not do any work on the day of the mill. One feature of the encounter is that they will meet for 75 and 25 per cent. of the gate receipts.

It is expected that betting on the contest will that they will meet for 75 and 25 per cent, of the gate receipts.

It is expected that betting on the contest will begin in earnest to-day. At present both men are equal favorites. The largest wager recorded up to date was made the other night between George Kingston, a Western turfman, and a Wall Street broker, Kingston taking the Corbett end. The bet was $1,000 even. Jim Wakely, who is a great admirer of the Kid, wants to bet $2,000 on McCoy. Johnny Considine and his brother George have also several thousand dollars to invest on Jim.

NO FITZ-JEFFRIES FIGHT.

Brady and the Cornishman Cannot Agree on Terms-Fitz to Retire.

The chance of a fight being held in this city between Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Jeffries for the championship before the law abolishing boxing in this State goes into effect dissolved yesterday. Billy Brady and Fitzeimmons had talk last evening and Brady said it was out of the question to think that the brawny boiler maker would take on the Cornishman at Madi son Square Garden next Friday night, as the champion is not in the best condition. Brady made other propositions to Fitz, but the latter refused to listen to them. Fitz finally wound up by declaring that if Jeffries would not consent to a match before the current month ex pires he would not fight any more, but would retire from the ring for good.

Brady had an appointment with "Lanky Bob at a downtown office at 5 o'clock last night, Fitz was on hand at least twenty minutes before Jeffries's manager put in an appearance Fitz was accompanied by George Dawson, his trainer, and Percy Williams, his backer. He sat opposite Brady and the latter opened proeedings with the following question:
"What are you going to do?"

"Well, we are here to make a match with leffries next Friday night," said Fitzsimmons. "If he means business let him cover my money which I put up on Saturday. I am here to accept his challenge."

This last remark brought Brady to his feet. "His challenge?" he shouted. "Why, he does not need to challenge anybody. because he is the champion of the world." The allusion to his lost title evidently opened up an old wound for Fitz turned about and replied:

"Yes, he is the champion. He licked me because I was 'doped.' I have an idea who did the trick, and when I catch him it won't go well with him, I can tell you."

"'Doped' was it," pursued Brady. "Yes, but it was contained in Jeffriee's punches, maybe. You said that you were willing to fight Jeffries after you licked Gus Ruhlin. When it came to a matter of business you turned around and declared you would not fight unless we split the purse. I asked Jeffries whether he would consent to such a thing. He said he would not by any means. He knows as well as you do that he can beat you again and will not fight you unless you agree to the purse being divided on a basis of 75 and 25 per cent."

"It's a lie!" said Fitz, edging close to Brady. "It's a lie!" said Fitz, edging close to Brady.
"I did not want to split the purse. What I did say was that I would fight him for 65 per cent.
and 55 per cent., and he could have the biggest slice of the purse pie whether he won or lost.
I tell you the truth. I would not have kicked if he insisted on an equal division of the money.
I did this when I fought Ruhlin and Sharkey.
It is no diagrace, because both battles were on the level." Fitz paused to get his breath.
Then he resumed. "I am not afraid of Jeffries."
"I'll fight him winner take all. But it must

It is no disgrace, because both battles were on the level. Fitz paused to get his breath. Then he resumed. "I am not afraid of Jeffries."

"I'll fight him winner take all. But it must be next Friday night or never."

Brady laughed again at this proposition. He was evidently nettled and chewed away at a cigar which was stuck in the corner of his mouth as if it annoyed him. "Why didn't you take on Jeffries instead of Sharkey after you defeated Ruhlin." Billy asked. "You would have drawn an $80,000 house instead of a $20,000 one. No, you thought Sharkey was easier. And right you were, too. If your memory is not too dull you will recall that I offered to match Jeffries against you on the sist of this month when you got through with the Akron Giant. All the newspaper men who were present that day can testify to that fact, but you went ahead and made a match with Sharkey. And now you have the gall to try and dictate to Jeffries."

Fitz declared that he signed with the Sailor because he had given his word and had posted a forfeit. Brady then said his argument was very feeble.

"The world is not coming to an end next week. There are plenty of other places where we can fight Jeffries is in no condition to fight on Friday next and I know that you do not care to tackle a man who is not in the best of shape, do you? Why we can secure plenty of your you what I think about the drawing powers of the match, no matter where it may be held, why I will offer $25,000 myself and post a forfeit at once and sign to hold the affair within six months' time. Jeffries cannot box right away. He weighs over 250 pounds. When he is in trim he easily tips the beam at 210 pounds."

"This does not concern me, "said Fitz getting up from his seat and making a move to leave, "Jeffries wont fight me next Friday night? That's all I want to know. I will not go the ring with him within six months' time. It is no wor never. It is no use of talking any further on the subject."

"Jeffries wont fight me next Friday night? That's all I want to know. I will not go in the ring with him within six months' time. It is now or never. It is no use of talking any further on the subject."

So the meeting broke up and Brady in company with the ex-champion and Williams went across the street to a cafe. As soon as the big pugillst appeared on Park row he was followed by a howling mob of newsboys and urchins. Brady and Fitz had another discussion in the cafe. The former did everything in his power to make the auburn-haired scrapper recede from his determination not to fight after Aug. 31. But Fitz was obdurate. As Brady started to leave Fitz extended his hand and said: "With the end of the Horton law on Friday night I go out too. I am going to retire. I have done my share of fighting and have been successful in two battles. While they were not at all very hard they were fast and vicious enough to make me know that I was fighting. Give my regards to Jeffries. I wish him all the luck in the world and I hope that he will keep the championship until he is an old man. Don't forget, Billy, to give him the message. Brady promised, shook hands with Bob and parted.

Before Fitzsimmons left for Bergen Beach The Sux reporter asked him if he would meet Jim Corbett at the Garden in place of Jeffries. The Cornishman shook his head and said: "No, I am through with the game. I have retired. It's Jeffries whom I am after. He is easier game than Corbett and besides he's the champion."

In atalk with the reporter Brady had this to say: "Fitzsimmons has no intention of fight-game than Corbett and besides he's the champion."

In atalk with the reporter Brady had this to say: "Fitzsimmons has no intention of fighting Jeffries next Friday night. If the champion were not in poor condition and I finally decided to let him fight this week I dlike to bet that Bob would craw. He does not want any more of the Californian's smashes. Once was enough for him. Even were Jeff in shape and Fitz had consented to the match on Friday night, don't you think it would be bad policy to accept? Suppose something happened at the Garden on Thursday night when McCoy and Corbett meet, would it not hurt the attendance the following night? The public has had a surfeit of boxing of late and wants a rest. No matter what match takes place on Friday the receipts are going to be smaller than expected. If Fitz makes up his mind to fight Jeffries within six months he can make a lotof money. He's only bluffing when he says he has retired. He will fight again soon enough, I can tell you.

can tell you."

Before leaving for Bergen Beach Fitz withdrew his forfeit of $2,500 which he posted on Saturday to bind a match with Jeffries. BOUTS AT SAMPSON A. C.

Quinn Refuses to Meet Handler and Two Local

Boys Fight Instead. The star bout at the Sampson A. C. last night did not materialize. Jimmy Handler, the Newark middleweight, and Jack Quinn of Brooklyn were to meet in a twenty-round contest at 156 pounds. Quinn, after sizing up the house, refused to go on, though Handler was willing to fight for what money there was in it. A bout of ten rounds was substituted. The first "go" was between Ed Smith of Brooklyn and Jack Welch of New York. The limit was ten rounds at 122 pounds. The boys went at each other from the start. Smith staggered Welch with a straight jab, but was slow in following up his advantage. Smith received many opportunities in the seconde but let them all slip. Welch recovered confidence and punched Smith pretty hard. The third was slow, both lad being inclined to clinch. In th fourth Smith made a flerce onslaught. Welch fourth Smith made a fierce onslaught. Welch did not know what to make of it and went down. He was so badly used up that the referee stopped the bout and gave the verdict to Smith.

In the next tilt Eugene Garcia of Brooklyn and Jim Lowe of New York had it out. The contestants met at 115 pounds for ten rounds. The men did not accomplish anything in the first round. The fighting was a little more spirited in the second. Garcia had the better of the work at short range and had Lowe in distress. Lowe recovered his lost ground in the third and from that time until the sixth made it interesting for his rival. Both were dropped in the seventh. In the remaining rounds the fighting was even and the decision was a draw.

Jack Ferreck and Terry Edwards, both of Brooklyn, figured in the third contest. The bout was ten rounds at 105 pounds. Edwards invariably came forward with a rush. Ferreck just staved his man off with jabs and the fighting grew so tame that the crowd hissed. Edwards planted his left into Ferrick's face in the fifth. Edwards nammered Ferrick in the wind in the seventh and mixed it up at close vious agreement the affair was called a draw.

ADVENT OF KING LIEF.

WESTERN COLT ROMPS OFF WITH STAKE AT SHEEPSHEAD BAY.

Vulcain Wins the Flying Handicap From a Outsider, Prima II., Gets Away With a Juvenile Sprint in Fast Time-Entries. Yesterday's racing at the Sheepshead Bay rack was surprisingly good, especially in the eyes of automatic regulars, who always look for an "off day," as the natural sequel to such a gala outing as that inspired by the Futurity. Why there should be an anti-climax after big event is a question that furnishes no satisfactory explanation, and there was certainly no evidence of a slump yesterday. The fields were up to the average standard in both quality and quantity, and the attendance showed that the programme was entitled to liberal patronage. The track conditions were good and the weather, although uncomfortably warm, was suggestive of a Klondike winter when compared with the temperature in more congested parts of the greater city.

The talent started off well by picking Killashandra to win the opening dash for all ages. The Whitney filly is by no means herself, but her class and gameness stood her in good stead ashandra to win the opening dash for all ages. The Whitney filly is by no means herself, but her class and gameness stood her in good stead when the pinch came and she squeezed home a neck in front of the top weight. Sanders, who ran a remarkable race under the conditions. In the second race, which was at one mile for three-year-olds and upward, Silver Garter, Einus, Fonsolee and Dollie Weithoff were the choices, but Dissenter, with Maher up, smothered the bunch in the stretch and won out by a length and a half from Dollie Weithoff, who beat Fonsolee a length. Einus came fast from a rear position and only lost show money by a neck. Silver Garter, the favorite, finished fifth.

Then came the Autumn Maiden Stakes, worth about $2.500 to the winner. It brought out a field of seven smart two-year-olds for a dash down the last five furlongs of the Futurity course. The Western and Saratoga reputation of J. D. Smith's coit King Lief made him favorite at i to 2 and even this discouraging price was cut in half by post time. It was a romp for the promising son of Prince Lief from the first pole, and he won with consummate ease by two lengths from Tom Kenny, an outsider that Tarsi succeeded in lauding second by a head after a desperate brush with Janice.

A well-balanced field of seven accepted for the Fiying Handicap at six furlongs, for three-year-olds. The weights were so shrewdly adjusted that nearly all the starters found backing, with Vulcain and Maribert equal favorites at 4 to 1. Indian Fairy forced the running for half a mile, when she was passed by Knight of Rhodes, but then Vulcain came along in typical Kingston style and won by a head. Knight of Rhodes finished four lengths ahead of Hesper, who scrambled up from the rear in time to beat Contestor a head.

The full field of eleven turned out for the two-year-olds and Minion died in from after busile and in the money, half a length ahead of Col. Padden. The favorite wound up an inglorious eighth.

The final contest of the day was a handicap at one mile and a sixt

At Hawthorne CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—The usual Hawthorne Monday crowd turned out to see the racing to day. The man-agement was disappointed, as it expected a large at-tendance because of the crowds the encampment has drawn to Chicago. The racing was spirited, although the card was but an ordinary one made up of telling platers. Owing to the rain on Sunday the track was deep and heavy, and scratches were numerous. Four favorites won. There were close finishes in four of the races. Summary:

lavorites won. There were close limites in foot of the races. Summary:

Tarf Notes.

Turr Notes.

It is stated on good authority that Jockey Jenkins who had been on the suspension list, was yesterday restored to full privileges under Jockey Club rules.

It was pretty near an even break between the rival riders at the Coney Island Jockey Club yesterday with the honors slightly in favor of J. Slack, who rode a first, a second and a third. Odom, Taral, O'Connor and Henry were twice in the money. O'Cornor and Henry were twice in the money.

The performance of King Lief yesterday at Sheepehead Bay was a revelation to the regulars who had not seen his gallops at Saratoga. In the many future stakes for which he is eligible. Smith's colt is likely to make matters warm for the fleetest of his rivals.

S. C. Hildreth, who recently paid $8,000 to Engene Leigh for the Kingston colt, Vulcain, is credited with having won the handsome three-year-old out yesterday through his victory in the Flying Handleap at Sheepshead Bay. He was played from fives down to fours and landed the money like a stake horse.

One of the most interesting side lasues to the Futur. to fours and landed the money like a stake horse. One of the most interesting side issues to the Futuity is furnished by the Spirit of the Times which it its special editions of last Saturday, produces an it lustrated resume of racing history calculated to many a gap in the libraries of horsemen. It is the first complete horse edition issued by the management in seventy years and the data is framed in readable and entertaining fashion. The pictures are particularly good.

The grack three-year-old colt. Prince of Vetonia

The crack three-year-old colt, Prince of Veronia, has almost fully recovered from the accident he sustained in a railread crash on his way back from the South last spring. He is by Cayuga - imp. Veronia, and is owned by the firm of A. H. and D. H. Morris. The colt showed promise of being one of the cracks of his year and carned brackets in three early races, including the Crescent City Derby at New Orleans when he defeated Sidney Lucas at even weights. He will be a factor in coming events at Sheepshead Bay, Gravesend and Morris Park.

Royal Canadian Y. C. Challenges for the Fisher Cup.

The Royal Canadian Yacht Club has challenged the Rochester Yacht Club for the Fisher cup, now held by the Rochester club. The challenge has been accepted and the dates set for the race are Sept. 8, 10 and 11. The Genessee, winner of the Canada cup last year, it has been announced, will defend the cup. The name of the challenger will not be announced until the Beaver, owned by Dr. Garrett and the Monota, owned by Beaument Jarvis, have been tried together. There are some Canadians who think that the Monota is a better boat than the Beaver and that she should have been selected as the challenger for the Canada cup last year. Since then some changes have been made in the Monota. Her inside ballast has been added to the forward end of the keel, thus increasing her stability and adding to her lateral plane. No changes have been made in the Beaver. cup, now held by the Rochester club. The No Decision in the Yankee-Mincola Protest.

Newport, Aug. 27.—The Regatta Commit-tee of the Newport Yacht Racing Association tee of the Newport Yacht Racing Association have not yet rendered a decision in the Yankee-Mineola protest, and before doing so will take testimony. There will probably be no more racing here until after the race for the Lipton cup, and it is then doubtful if the boats will again meet off Newport. The Virginia has returned from Bristol, where she went to have her deck repaired, and this afternoon she went out for a spin to let her new crew drill in light sails. The Yankee was also out for a spin.

NEWPORT, Aug. 27.-The polo game to-day was between the Myopia and West Chester teams, the former winning by a score of 16 to 6. It was a very good game, but so one sided that much interest was lost after the first period. Shaw for the Myopias put up a remarkably strong game, and to him the greater number of goals were credited. The teams played even up, and the line-up was as follows: Myopia -1, C. G. Rice: 2, R. G. Shaw, second; 3, R. L. Agassiz: back, F. B. Fay.

West Chester -1, E. Reymail: 2, J., E. Cowdin; 3, J. M. Waterbury, J.; back, P. F. Collier.
Goals Made in Play—Myopia, 16; West Chester, 6. VESPER'S VICTORY WELL RECEIVED. Queer Ruling of the Officials at International

Regatta Commented Upon. The victory of the Vesper B. C. crew in the eight-oared race at the International Regatta held at Paris on Sunday last was the subject of great rejoicing among the oarsmen of this city yesterday. The Vespers, although a Philadelphia orew, really represented the United States in the international contest, and the New Yorkers feel especially proud of its suc-cess, as the main part of the expenses was contributed by the clubs and admirers of rowing in this city.

was expected that they would also compete in the four-cared race at the International Regatta, as the eight included the four men who efeated the noted Wachusetts four at the National Regatta. It was learned, however, that the programme was so arranged that the Americans would have jeopardized their chances in the eight-oared race if they had competed in the four-oared event, and as the eight was the feature of the regatta, they naturally stayed

The aquatic managers of the Exposition

The aquatic managers of the Exposition appear to have followed the lead of their athletic brethren, who were long on promises before the American team arrived and afterward ran the events off without any regard for the obligations they were under to America.

Becretary Fortmeyer, who accompanied the crew, had assurances that everything possible would be done to accommodate the Americans; but in spite of this, if the information which some of the oarsmen possess is correct, the Vespers were practically frozen out of the four-oaved race. An even more reprehensible act was the action of the officials in allowing all the three crews which competed in one of the trial heats to row in the final on the ground that the second and third crews made faster time than that accomplished by the Vespers in their trial heat. A local enthusiast, speaking on the subject, said yesterday:

"That is the most absurd rule I ever heard of. Apart from the fact that the French crew opposed to the Vespers in their trial heat gave up and the Americans finished as they pleased, rowing is the one particular sport where the time test is absolutely valueless. At least on tidal water such as the Seine, where one heat may be rowed against the stream and the next have the advantage of perhaps wind and tide. It will be well in future for any crews going abroad to inquire the exact rules under which they will row and to have an understanding that the efficials shall be pinned down to them."

The only regret among oarsmen here is that the crack English crews did not compete at the international regatta. As previously explained in The Sun the Britishers took exception to the conditions laid down by the Frenchmen, and from the absurd rulings which prevailed it is evident that the London clubs were well advised when they decided to taboo the regatta. From the easy manner in which the Vespers won, however, it is apparent that a stirring contest would have resulted if the Leander or some other prominent Thames crew had competed.

Opening of the Grand Circuit Meeting at Providence. PROVIDENCE, Aug. 27.-A big crowd was in attendance on the opening day of the Grand Circuit meet at Narragansett Park to-day. The day was extremely warm, but nevertheless some good racing was witnessed as the track was in splendid condition. The 2:11 pace was the event of the day. Dumont W., the favorite, won the first two heats, but got a bad start in the third, and was beaten out by Art Alco, who also landed the fourth heat-The fifth heat was won by Ambulator in a great

The fifth heat was won by Ambulator in a great finish. The sixth heat brought the big crowd to its feet. Ambulator made a great bid for this heat, but Dumont W. came first under the wire in a whip finish.

In the 2:14 trot Nell Gwynne was the favorite. Alice Barnes won the first heat. The finish of the second heat was one of the best ever witnessed on the local track. Nigger Jack, Lasso, Iris O. and Nell Gwynne came down the stretch in a bunch and the heat was won by Nell Gwynne by a nose. This event will be finished to-morrow. Summaries:

GOSSIP OF THE HARNESS HORSES. Fromineut Candidates for the Charter Oak Stakes. Less than two weeks ago it looked as though the $10,000 Charter Oak Stakes at Hartford would be a very poor race, but the entries, published exclusively in THE SUN on Sunday, disclosed the names of candidates for the stake whose performances during the past ten days place them in line for the classic event and indicate a battle royal to decide the winner. For instance, there is York Boy. He has not been beaten this season, and trotted a heat in a winning race at Boston in 2:09%. Mr. Gormely's ning race at Boston in 2.09%. Mr. Gormely's mare, Georgena, will be considered as a very strong candidate for the big purse. She has not only been showing great speed, having gone a mile in 2.09% at Boston within a lew days, but shows herself to be a reliable and consistent performer. Then there is Lady Geraldine, Isaac L. Goff's mare that won the M. and M. $10,000 stake at Detroit. Many horsemen at that time thought her victory was a "scratch," but she has been showing good form every day since. She went a mile at Glens Falls in a winning race in 2.11%, and good judges of form think that she can beat 2:10. Mary Anderson is another that has been showing well; her mile in 2.11% at Columbus places her in the fast class. Joe Watts is one that will bear watching. Little is known about him by the general public, but he has gone a mile this season in 2.13%.

The Hamlin entry, Lord Derby, is considered dangerous by some of the talent. He has gone a mile this season in 2.13%. Temple wikes has won a race this year in 2.10%. Nell Gwynne has also demonstrated this season that she is worthy of consideration. She has covered a mile in 2.12% and is going well. Bill Curry promises speed and is considered a factor in the race. DeWitt C. Flannagan's Ivandorf, one of the Speedway favorites, is consistent and is said to be improving in speed and gait. In fact, this year's Charter Oak promises to be one of the sensational races of the season.

The stake is for 2.15 trotters. The fastest time ever made in it was by Lord Vincent, who took the third heat in 2.09% last year in a five-heat race.

Syracuse, Aug. 27.—After one heat had been mare, Georgena, will be considered as a very

BROOKLYNS WIN EASILY

NEW YORK TAIL-ENDERS OUTPLAYED AT EVERY POINT.

fercer Batted Out of the Box and Is Succeeded by Taylor, the Deaf Mute-Hanlon's Men in Fine Form-The Chicagos Capture a Pitchers' Battle From the St. Louis Team The Brooklyns returned home from thei last long trip of the season vesterday and proceeded to toy with the New York tall-enders. Hanlon's men increased their lead to 74 points, which is very safe. The Chicagos turned the tables on the St. Louis team and took a 2 to 1 pitchers' contest. The other teams were not scheduled. The results:

Brooklyn, 9; New York, 2. Chicago, S; St. Louis, 1. THE RECORD.

BROOKLYN. 9: NEW YORK, 2. About 1,200 spectators were at Washington

Park yesterday afternoon to see the New Yorks cleanly vanquished in a postponed game with the Brooklyns. Hanlon's men were in their best form, with the result that the tail-enders looked like a lot of green hands. The Brooklyns pounded Mercer so freely that he was retired to the bench at the end of the fourth inning when the score was 8 to 0. Then Manager Davis put to the bench at the end of the fourth inning when the score was 8 to 0. Then Manager Davis put in his deaf and dumb pitcher, Taylor, who had not received a trial in a League game before. The newcomer was fairly effective, but did not occupy the box long enough to show his real worth. Hickman, who has been touted as an even better third baseman than Collins of the Bostons gave a weak exhibition. He does not know how to handle short bounders and is erratic in his throwing. He fears nothing, however, which is a redeeming feature. Hickman, Doyle and Rennedy were guilty of dumb plays in that they were not able to see the situation when called upon. But Daly, Dahlen, Jennings, Selbach and Gleason made some beautiful stops and catches. Kennedy had his great speed with him and the New Yorks were unable to score until the sixth inning, when Selbach made a three-basger and ran in on a force. In the third inning Jennings made an unusual play. With Mercer on third and Van Haltren on second, with one out, Davis filed to Dahlen, who threw wildly to the plate. The ball got past both McGuire and Kennedy, but Jennings, who was backing up, threw himself on the ground in front of the ball, stopped it and hurried it back to the plate in time to cause Mercer to run back to the right in the score:

BROOKLYN. NEW YORK.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—The rejuvenated St. Louis club could not hit Menefee to-day when they needed hits and the veteran won for Chicago. Powell pitched equally as well, but the Orphans managed to bunch two singles in the second inning and McCormick followed with a two-bagger that brought enough runs to win the victory. The score:

runs to win the victory.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—William J. Fox, who played third base and was captain of the Holy Cross College team during his college course, has decided to enter the priesthood. Fox was graduated from Holy Cross last June and shortly afterward he received an offer from the Philadelphia Club of $2,000 to finish the season as its third baseman. His determination to become a member of the Catholle clergy led to a refusal of this and other flattering offers.

Curry promises speed and is considered a factor in the race. DeWitt C. Flannagan's Ivandorf, one of the Speedway favorites, is consistent and is said to be improving in speed and gait. In fact, this year's Chariter Oak promises to be one of the sensational races of the season.

The stake is for 2.15 trotters. The fastest time ever made in it was by Lord Vincent, who took the third heat in 2:08½ last year in a stwe-heat race.

Syracuse. Aug. 27.—After one heat had been trotted in the 2:18 class at the State Fair to-day a heavy rainstorm came up, and in five minutes the new mile track was a sea of mud and water. The races were then postponed until to-morrow, the new mile track was a sea of mud and water. The races were then postponed until to-morrow them as was the winner of the heat in 2:20%. Lady Norvetta was second, Tip 1, third and Audacity fourth.
